A lustie nutt browne wenche stout wooth ye naminge went downe a staier bearinge a candle flaming:
A swaggering gallant comming her tentounter
att first approache roragiously would mount her:
Shee strongly made resistance and did swearre
shee would burnt him by that candle shee did bearre:
Shee blew ye candle out to breake her word
shee kept her promise still immagine how.
Finis.

Barnfield, Richard, 1574–1627.
Shepherdes Confession, compiled ca. 1625.
V.a.161, pg. 22.

Copyright © The Folger Shakespeare Library ®. All Rights Reserved. Classroom use is encouraged, as is use for personal research. Single copies may be made for personal or noncommercial uses, provided they include copyright notice.

For information regarding permission to use images and/or text from the Folger collection for educational or commercial purposes, please contact us at photo@folger.edu.